DAKAR 2023

GLOBAL SOCIAL AND SOLIDARITY ECONOMY FORUM

1 - 6 May 2023

◆ PROGRAM ◆

dakar2023.gsef-net.org

Welcome to the #DakarGSEF2023 Forum

The sixth edition of the World Forum on the Social and Solidarity Economy (SSE), hosted for the first time in Africa, brings together several thousand people from all continents for three days of exchanges and political dialogue preceded by two pre-Forums. This event takes on a particular dimension in the context of the international recognition of the role of the Social Solidarity Economy by the United Nations this past April 18th.

The recent periods of global economic and political instability, accentuated by the COVID-19, have highlighted the flaws of a model based on maximum profit and confirmed, if need be, the need to reinvent an alternative and complementary development model that is more inclusive and sustainable.

Beyond the constitution of a set of economic activities, the Social and Solidarity Economy (SSE) proposes a social model where those excluded from the formal system (young people, women, but also the unemployed, people with disabilities, etc.) can find their place, thus meeting the Leave No One Behind principle of the 2030 Agenda on sustainable development. Thus, the transition from "informal" economies to territorial, collective and sustainable economies is a viable solution to rebalance inequalities and economic, social and environmental objectives. The World Forum on the Social and Solidarity Economy DakarGSEF2023 has set it as the main theme of this edition.

We wish you an excellent Forum, rich in inspirations, exchanges and meetings.

◆ COMMITMENT

To welcome the participants, The DakarGSEF2023 has favored environmentally friendly choices involving local actors, especially with traditional fabric bags made by 7 women's groups in Senegal, cardboard badge holders and recycled cotton cords.

A gourd (made of sugar cane waste) was also given to each participant, allowing them to use the mineral water fountains placed at different places of the Forum.

Thematic Paths

The 2023 edition of the Global Social and Solidarity Economy Forum will deal with an ambitious global theme, broken down into 7 sub-themes, 7 paths of plenary sessions, self-organized sessions and workshops that participants will be able to explore throughout the Forum.

Main theme

"TRANSITIONING FROM "INFORMAL ECONOMIES" TO COLLECTIVE AND SUSTAINABLE ECONOMIES FOR OUR TERRITORIES"

PATH 1

Co-constructing public policies for collective and sustainable economies conducive to decent jobs for young people and women.

How to identify the challenges and issues and co-create the conditions and opportunities for public policies conducive to collective and sustainable economies for our territories? How to build bridges for transitioning from informal economies to collective and sustainable economies that create decent jobs for young people and women? What roles for local authorities and SSE actors to promote a territorialized economy and allow us to achieve inclusive and sustainable development?

PATH 2

Sustainable blue economy, preservation of artisanal fishing, creation of new sustainable jobs, and social & environmental protection.

How to solve the issues faced by the artisanal and industrial fishing sectors and establish a dynamic in the search for relevant mitigation solutions? What responses can the inclusive governance of a sustainable solidarity blue economy provide? How to create direct and indirect solidarity and decent jobs in the sectors of tourism, fishing, energy, agriculture, transport, etc. in the perspective of an inclusive and sustainable "blue growth"? What social protection system can best meet the needs of fishing stakeholders and communities, as well as actors of impacted coastal territories?

Collective and sustainable "green" economy for the territories, food self-sufficiency and its governance.

How to reconcile the fight against poverty and environmental protection? How to reconcile a society of overproduction & consumption and hunger? How to make trade, green economy, and sustainable development coexist? How to design a "green" economic project that can achieve consensus between developing countries, emerging countries and developed countries, and among SSE and civil society actors? In the absence of a "global governance", how can the general interest of a green economy, self-sufficiency of communities, and preservation of the planet be ensured? What institutional mechanisms could finally make it possible to move on to an operational phase of the transition towards a green economy?

PATH 4

Solidarity & sustainable digital economy and smart territories.

How to model the concept of smart territory on the basis of very different realities?
How to pool the platforms for building upon all the experiences of SSE organizations and enterprises in the digital field and on digitization? How to improve services to users, the functioning of local governments, and the steering of local public policies, in particular through the digitization of procedures and the processing of data? How to structure collective approaches to cooperation at territorial and/or national levels between governments and SSE organizations and enterprises?

PATH 5

Financing collective and sustainable economies for the territories.

What are the methods, strategies, and constraints related to the financing of SSE organizations and enterprises? How to address the challenges of their effectiveness, sustainability, and impact? What specific tools can be mobilized to target such essential groups in our economies as young people, women, and rural populations? How to create decentralized financing structures within local governments to support SSEOs? What alternative and innovative financing mechanisms can be mobilized? What is the role of the state and local governments? How to pool human, financial, and material resources and create partnerships between local governments and SSE actors? How to better leverage and regulate the CSR plan of companies?

PATH 6

Policy dialogue : national & local governments and key stakeholders of collective and sustainable economies for the territories.

How to strengthen a more open and collaborative governance between local authorities and SSE organizations and enterprises in our territories? How can the collaboration between all actors (central & local governments and SSE actors, among others) stimulate the development of territorial, collective and sustainable economies? How to set up structured dialogue mechanisms articulated with participatory governance from an SSE perspective? How can the collaboration between local authorities and SSE stakeholders contribute to the emergence of decentralized policies able to boost local economy in their respective territories?

PATH 7

Social and Solidarity Economy and sustainable development : links between practices and research.

How can SSE embark on paths of research and building & transmission of knowledge? What are the links between SSE and the four pillars of sustainable development (Human, Social, Economic and Environmental)? What innovative links can be made between SSE and development research? What collaboration between SSE actors, academia, and research institutions?
